Mrs. Easton owned house in 1908 at 187 Broadway, Bayonne, N. J., where she did dressmaking and kept chickens, pigeons and rabbits in yard. House sold by Annett-Mahmken Realty Co to a Mrs. Williams and in 1908 purchased it back from her, according to Mr. Annett.

G. Bozzo rented store at 187 Broadway from Mrs. Jenny Easton in 1908. Annett Realty Co rented a house at 273 Ave. C to her sister whom they had to dispossess. She got into another house of theirs under an assumed name of McGill and they again dispossessed her.

Mr. Kerney, a butcher at 188 Broadway, stated Mrs. Williams made some gingham dresses for his wife, tho he can't remember her.

From 273 Ave C learned Williams family moved to 51 Ave C, from which house they were dispossessed also in Dec. 1925 (this is evidently Mrs. Gibson's sister).

At 51 Ave C woman, present occupant, said two men who came to rent a room from her said they had many a good time in this house when Williams woman had it. She heard Mrs. Williams kept a very disorderly house; on several occasions there were fights; one man learning his wife was in there broke several windows when he was refused admission and police were called in. Man was arrested.

Grover across street holds note signed by Dave Smith, supposed to be Williams woman's husband, for $15 grocery bill. Mrs Williams was living with a man named Dave.
